fact file

In the mix: explore your city | art for everyone | good shoes | design by the book | so glad

shopping siren

So you've lived in the same city for a decade, but do you know the best wine bar, antique store and beauty retreat? Victoria Moxey, founder of

Urban Walkabout, has made it her business to map out the lot, from Australian clothing designers to vintage shoes, art galleries to unique homewares, handmade chocolate havens to the best delis. "Friends at dinner parties kept asking, 'Have you been to so-and-so?'" and so often I hadn't heard about them, so they'd draw me a map on a paper serviette," says Victoria of how it all began. "One morning it just hit me, it was something that I had to do." Her gorgeously illustrated city guides are packed with magical finds, and they're free. Victoria has so far covered seven of the coolest areas of Sydney, but other capital cities beware – you're about to be discovered.

did you know A sheet of non-stick Glad Bake & Cooking Paper cuts the need to grease trays and pans, and saves time washing up. It's handy in the frying pan, sandwich maker or even on the barbecue.

Sketches of style

Imagine a book so incredibly beautiful you feel inspired every time you flip through it. Collaborations with Alexander McQueen and Swarovski have kept Dutch designer Tord Boontje at the cutting edge of visual art, and he has now released a book full of his amazing work. You'll find yourself referring to it a hundred times over. Tord Boontje, $130 (Hardie Grant).

Pink Spice (left) and Noughts And Crosses, $350 each for 90cm x 90cm, with larger sizes available.
